Did You Know?

OCD affects 1 in 100 adults and 1 in 200 children and teens in the United States, yet it remains little understood in the general public.

If you or someone you know lives with Obsessive-Compulsive Disorder (OCD) this presentation will provide the opportunity to get your questions answered from three experts in their field.

Bradley C. Riemann, PhD, is the Clinical Director of the OCD Center and Cognitive-Behavioral Therapy Services at Rogers Memorial Hospital. Dr. Riemann is a leading expert in the assessment of OCD and anxiety disorders and the use of CBT treatment.

David M. Jacobi, PhD, is the Clinical Supervisor and Behavior Specialist at the Child & Adolescent Centers at Rogers. Dr. Jacobi has an extensive practice background in the treatment and research of anxiety disorders and OCD as it relates to children and their families.

Nicholas Farrell, PhD, is a psychologist who provides clinical consultation and supervision at Rogers' residential Eating Disorder Center, as well as in the inpatient, partial hospital and intensive outpatient programs.
